

Lok Nayak Hospital and GB Pant Hospital

Both hospitals are located in the heart of the national capital. The hospitals are close to Old as well as New Delhi area and are easily accessible to those living in the northern part of the city.

Deen Dayal Upadhyay

Located in Hari Nagar, the hospital will cater to the people residing in West Delhi and adjoining areas.

Guru Teg Bahadur Hospital

The hospital is situated in Dilshad Garden and is easily accessible to people residing in the eastern part of the national capital and adjoining areas.

Rajiv Gandhi Super Speciality Hospital

Another medical centre which is located in East Delhi and can be accessed by those living in the northeast part of the national capital as well. It is one of the premier healthcare institutes in the country.

Baba Saheb Ambedkar Hospital

Located in Rohini, the hospital can be accessed by those living in the north and far northern areas of the national capital.

The southern part of the city already has some of the highly equipped medical centres including AIIMS and Safdarjung Hospital. Both hospitals are already leading the front in providing Covid-19 relief and care in the national capital.

Sir Ganga Ram Hospital has named its affiliated hospital Sir Ganga Ram Kolmet Hospital (Pusa Road) as a Covid-only facility, as approved by the government of Delhi. The main Sir Ganga Ram Hospital will now not be a COVID-19 facility.

Apollo Hospital and the eastern block of Max hospital in Saket have also been dedicated for COVID-19 patients. The block in Max can accommodate up to 328 beds for patients, while Apollo Hospital has earmarked 50 beds for the purpose.